

AERO CAPITAL PRESENTS MAGELLAN, SOFTWARE ALLOWING TO MAKE INFORMED DECISIONS WHEN BUYING, SELLING AND MANAGING PRIVATE AIRCRAFT

News / Business aviation

Designed to provide unprecedented transparency, Magellan allows buyers and sellers of private jets and helicopters to know exactly what the real cost of ownership is. Maintenance, financing, taxes, destinations, flight frequency, passenger counts, and estimated resale value are all included in the analysis, which combines fixed and variable costs. Because it enables a thorough comparison of aircraft, Magellan is a crucial tool for decision-making.

The number of passengers at which a jet flight is better than a commercial flight or any other form of transportation, as well as the exact carbon footprint of the jet, are the factors that Magellan considers when calculating productivity gains.

The data is regularly updated, and the software is manufacturer-approved. Because AERO CAPITAL is not affiliated with any manufacturer, carrier, lessor, financial institution, insurance company, or maintenance provider, it can assure our clients that we will provide them with a truly unbiased, all-inclusive, and adaptable service.

Laurent Buisson, Founder and Chairman of AERO CAPITAL commented: "Decision-makers wishing to buy or sell a jet used to benefit from incomplete support. Their decisions were based on a limited number of criteria, which didn't allow them to make an optimal decision."

360° international support - AERO CAPITAL provides an independent, exhaustive and multidimensional analysis that allows its clients to :

- Make informed decisions, based on a thorough understanding of all the technical, financial and operational aspects involved in acquiring or selling an aircraft;
- Optimize your budget and cash flow;
- Support in setting up financing solutions;
- Meet their commitments: customers can offset the carbon generated by their travel to meet the most stringent requirements;
- Customized assistance and support from selection to delivery;
- Access to an ecosystem of partners, all experts in their respective fields;
